The Norfolk Skills and Careers Festival takes place on 6th and 7th March 2019 at the Norfolk Showground. This interactive careers event for 14-24 year olds aims to help inspire them for their future career and showcases exciting options available across a wide range of sectors.

How will attending the event support my school or college? Does your school or college need support to improve its Gatsby Benchmark scoring? The Gatsby Benchmarks are a framework of eight guidelines that define the best careers provision in schools and colleges. The government Careers Strategy is built around the framework and they make a great place to start planning or improving your institution's careers programmes. Attending the Norfolk Skills and Careers Festival will help provide evidence towards benchmark 2 (students should have access to good-quality information about future study options and labour market opportunities) and benchmark 5 (every student should have multiple opportunities to learn from employers about work, employment and the skills that are valued in the workplace).

Please direct students to The Advice Lounge where they can drop in at any time for an informal chat, either individually or in small groups. The Advice Lounge is staffed by Beacon East, icanbea and Apprenticeships Norfolk. This area offers free independent & impartial advice from qualified careers guidance professionals and specialist apprenticeships advisers. The Advice Lounge supports the outcomes of Gatsby Benchmark 2 and 8 (helping ensure that students have access to good-quality information and guidance about their future study options and labour market opportunities).

Your institution's Careers Leader and Coordinator will collate information about your students' attendance at the event to input into Compass Tracker (free tool for schools and colleges in England that quickly and easily helps evaluate careers activity against the 8 benchmarks of best practice). Please ensure you keep a record of the event and which students benefitted from attending the festival. If your school or college is in an Opportunity Area then there will be additional employer encounters information, which will need to be fed back to your Enterprise Coordinator. Enterprise Coordinators help to facilitate links between schools, colleges and businesses through the Enterprise Adviser Network. For further information go to New Anglia Enterprise Adviser Network.

Travel Subsidy

Where this has been agreed, travel costs will be subsidised after your Festival visit. We will be in touch to arrange this. Travel Subsidy is only issued for coaches/minibuses which have been hired by the school to travel to the event. We do not pay for school owned vehicles.

Lesson Ideas

Considering Skills and Careers – Lesson Idea

Lesson objective: Pupils consider how their experiences and achievements relate to their ideas about future study and work. They could use the grid on the next page.

Strengths

Note down achievements – could start by asking pupils to write down what they've achieved so far. This could include skills (piano Grade Four etc.), one-off achievements (scored a hat-trick, won a tennis competition), as well as academic achievements (won a school prize, been rewarded for an exceptional piece of work). This can also include personal traits e.g. something that comes naturally to them such as: confidence, problem solving, friendly etc.

Any school awards and recognition should certainly be identified.

Weaknesses to fill in

Think about what is missing – what skills would they like to gain?

Point out this should be a positive self-assessment. It is ok and totally normal to have things they are not so good at. If they are asked what their weaknesses are it is always good to say how they are striving to improve them.

And how might they do this – through a job, work experience, volunteering etc.

Opportunities to come

Add things which may come onto the list in Years 10-12 to include public exam results, potential subject choices, DoE, National Citizen Service etc. These can build key skills that are required for success such as team working, resourcefulness, timekeeping etc.

These lists will then be relevant to applications to University and for employment.

Thinking about why?

Why do Universities and employers value these things?

- What does being part of the football team or gardening club actually say about you? - Commitment to a team, reliability, and eagerness to contribute to your community perhaps.
- What does A-Level French actually say about you? – Application, perseverance, independence and resourcefulness as well as intelligence.
- What the DoE scheme say about you? Etc.

Where might all this take you?

Does your SWOT analysis give you any ideas about the future?

As you go round the festival, think of your SWOT analysis.

Aptitude and Careers Tests - Lesson Idea

Lesson objective: Students are given suggestions about the sorts of jobs that might suit them based on either/or both of:

- Their personality
- Their interests.

These resources are designed to get students thinking about jobs they have never heard of or even considered. They are not designed to classify people rigidly as one type or another, merely to draw out hidden strengths and aptitudes.

1. The following website tests students' personality traits and suggests jobs based on that.

<http://www.career-test.co.uk/>

2. The second resource suggests jobs they could consider based on their interests. This resource is found on page 7 of this document and can be printed and distributed to students. With thanks to Danisile Nxumalo, 'Preparing for work' TES resource.

They could now add the strengths or interests they have discovered here to their SWOT sheet. There is also a sheet at the end of this document where they can record 'Careers I would like to find out more about' and 'Five exhibitors I want to visit' based on their research in these two activities.

They should bring this final sheet with them to the Norfolk Skills and Careers Festival.

Careers I would like to find out more about:

(list them here)

You may want to look at the 'What Work Norfolk' publication at this point for more information on the job market in general as well as opportunities in Norfolk.

One way to do this is to look them up here:

<https://nationalcareersservice.direct.gov.uk/Pages/Home.aspx>

This is a fantastic resource with a wealth of information about different careers and how to get into them.

Exhibitors I would like to visit at the Festival:

Remember, many companies have a huge variety of roles within them. For example, look at your own school. You have teachers of course, but also you are likely to have a nurse, a librarian, maintenance staff, a counsellor, secretaries, personal assistants, technicians, finance staff, even a marketing manager and many more! Do not just think about the most obvious roles within organisations, ask exhibitors about the range of opportunities on offer.

See page 14 for a full list of exhibitors.

Select five exhibitors you definitely want to visit and write them out below.

Understanding your values

Would earning a lot of money make you happy? Despite the phrase "money makes the world go around" it generally doesn't lead to job satisfaction. It's important to consider what you enjoy and what you want from a career while thinking about your future.

What are values?

Your values are what you consider to be important in the way you live and work; they give you purpose and motivate you. Values determine your priorities and are likely to underpin how you assess if life is turning out the way you want it to. When the things you do match your values you're usually satisfied and content; when they don't match something feels wrong and it can be a source of unhappiness.

Let's say you value autonomy (working on your own), creativity (the ability to do things your way) and a good work life balance (time away from work). Would you truly be satisfied in a job where you work 12 hour shifts manufacturing a product under a strict supervisor who's insistent on adhering to a process? You may be able to perform this job for a short period of time but could you do it over several years?

Why are values important?

Your values are likely to be a key factor in deciding on a career path or employment field and they are important factors in interviews as a recruiter may try to assess if your values match that of the job role and the organisation. Behavioural interviewing is becoming more common in recruitment as it permits a recruiter to gain an insight in to your values and motivators; it can be a good indication as to whether you're a good fit with the organisation culture and values.

Interview questions that look to explore your values may include questions like "Why does this role appeal to you?" or "What's more important to you, reward or recognition?" Interviewers may also explore particular values that are key to their organisation with questions around integrity; compassion; adaptability; excellence or courage.

You can often find employers' values identified on their corporate webpages.

Identifying your values

An accountant working in a large private practice may value job security, prestige, recognition, advancement and salary reward while an accountant working in a smaller practice or self-employed may value autonomy, independence, risk and a sense of achievement. Both may however share values of variety, social interaction and intellectual challenge.

By identifying your values you discover what is important to you which in turn can help identify what you want from life and from a career. Try to think what factors contributed to you feeling a certain way. When were you most happy? When were you most fulfilled or satisfied? Try to reflect on your experiences and find examples from both your academic work and personal life.

You may find that this quick values assessment from the Barrett Values Centre can assist in identifying your values or try to choose your top 5 or 10 from the list below:

Academic	Accountability	Accuracy	Achievement	Advancement	Ambition	Assertiveness
Belonging	Challenge	Commitment	Community	Compassion	Competition	Control
Discretion	Diversity	Dynamic	Efficiency	Empathy	Enterprising	Enthusiasm
Excellence	Expertise	Fairness	Focus	Fun	Happiness	Health
Intellectual Status	Justice	Leadership	Loyalty	Making a Difference	Order	Originality
Practical	Prestige	Professional	Public Interest	Quality	Recognition	Reliability
Reward	Risk	Salary	Security	Sense of Purpose	Sensitivity	Service
Spontaneity	Stability	Strategic	Success	Teamwork	Tolerance	Traditional
Unity	Value	Variety	Vision	Work Life Balance	Responsible	Simplicity
Authority	Creativity	Ethical	Honesty	Outdoors	Travel	Autonomy
Democracy	Equality	Independence	Perfection	Results Driven	Social	Unique

Ideas for quick careers lessons. Ideal for tutorial time.

Aspiration Themed Activities:

1. Group Discussion on 30 things I'd like to achieve/have done by the time I am 30. Discuss achievements at school and beyond, life experiences, travel, skills.
2. To get students thinking about the wide range of jobs available. Pick 5 or 6 objects or print pictures of them e.g. a computer, a football, a house, a baby, a packet of biscuits, a car. Get students in teams to come up with as many jobs as they can think of connected to the objects in 90 seconds then move on to the next object and add to other teams list - the winner is the team to think of the most.
3. Ask students as a group or in pairs to decide what makes a hero/heroine and feedback. Ask them to write on a post it note an example of a hero and why they are heroic. What makes a hero – being successful, inspiring people, being famous, helping people, going above and beyond the average.
